Items not on the Consent Agenda

6. Items from citizens present.

Erica Snyder, a Mesa resident, spoke on behalf of the Downtown Mesa Association in support of HeatSync Labs. She explained that HeatSync Labs is a non-profit maker space on Main Street that charges membership dues and opens its space to the public at no charge. She stated that HeatSync is solely staffed by volunteers and hosts classes every night, but they are outgrowing their current space and cannot afford to expand with their current membership. She reported that the City of Tempe is offering rent-free warehouse space and emphasized that Mesa is at risk of losing an invaluable asset. She stated that HeatSync contributes to Mesa's local economy, supports local businesses, inspires the youth, and inspires companies to employ residents of Mesa. She recognized the Council for their support of HeatSync in the past and requested that Mesa find a way to keep HeatSync Labs in the City of Mesa.

Roger Rohback, a Mesa resident, expressed the opinion that the new 2500 Kelvin (K) filtered light-emitting diode (LED) bulbs being considered for downtown Mesa are the best choice for the environment due to their minimal blue light emissions. He said that he supports the project and requested to be contacted when it begins. He distributed a fact sheet to the Council related to the 2500K LED lights.

Joe Geusic, a Mesa resident, commented that he defends the K-12 education system and is opposed to Proposition 205 on the November General Election ballot. He added that the proposition was written by the industry and creates a statutory right to use marijuana without adequate regulations of use while driving, working or even in custody situations. He advised that the proposition is a bad idea and would negatively affect the police, fire and teachers in the community. He requested that the Council, staff and residents read the document and educate themselves on how it will affect the City of Mesa.

Luis Montes, a Mesa resident and software consultant, informed the Council that his business started from HeatSync Labs where he went to network. He explained the economic impact that HeatSync has on Mesa and said that he now employs a handful of developers he met there making software and electronics. He now runs a weekly meeting at HeatSync called Coffee and Code, where he hosts software developers and said those meetings turn into opportunities.

7. Adjournment.

Without objection, the Regular Council Meeting adjourned at 6:09 p.m.
