To Whom It May Concern:

We would like to request information regarding the Mesa Zoning Ordinance that is being proposed and set to be discussed at the January 27th City Council meeting. Could you provide us with some background information? Has this proposal been voted on by the RV and Manufactured Parks HOAs that it would directly impact? What input has been gathered from the local RV businesses (RV parks, RV dealers, installers, transporters, awning and skirting installers, AC companies, etc.) to understand the impact these changes will have on the industry?

What is the City of Mesa doing about the existing stick-built homes in the RV Park Venture Out as this violates the current zoning code?

We appreciate your response and look forward to hearing from you.

Thank you,

Ms. Moss-Chaney,

The Long Range Team received your email yesterday and we're preparing a response. In the meantime, I just wanted to clarify a few points regarding speaking on the item.

The proposed text amendments were heard by the Planning and Zoning Board at their November 13th meeting, where they recommended that the City Council adopt the amendments. Unlike City Council, Planning and Zoning Board agendas do not include a general item for public comment on items that are not on the agenda. Therefore, your next opportunity to speak on the text amendment will be at a City Council meeting.

Staff anticipates introducing the text amendment to the City Council for on January 27th with action scheduled for February 3rd.

Staff will be in touch shortly to respond to your specific questions and concerns.

One question, I watched the November 13th meeting video and did not see any actual review of the proposed amendments to Chapters 34 and 87 of the Mesa City Code. Was this reviewed at that specific meeting?

Could someone from the planning department advise on why builders are being allowed to build stick built homes at this time in Venture Out RV Park? The proposed changes to the current zoning does not go up for review until the end of this month. It seems that the city is not enforcing its own zoning ordinances.

Good morning Shelly,

Thank you for the additional information.

It appears that 704 Boeing (PMT24-04135) received a permit for a new park model to be built on the existing floor. The permit also included an Arizona Room addition and deck.

The property at 702 Debonair (PMT20-00727) was approved for a park model and awning in 2020. If there is conventional build construction on-site, it is likely not permitted. The City's Code Compliance office would be able to assess if a violation has occurred – this would require submittal of a Code Complaint (Report a Code Violation - City of Mesa).

Hi John,

Thank you for the follow up email. You are correct, it was meant to be space 701 Debonair.

Both of these homes were not built on the existing park model frame. The frame is under the home bolted to the ground, but nothing is built on top of it or structurally used for the new home. It's also no longer a RV park model, it's not built on a chassis, over 400 square feet, not built to the RVIA code and is a permanent structure. It does not adhere to the City of Mesa zoning ordinance. Let me know if you have any other questions or would like to discuss further. I'm happy to jump on a call.

Thank you for your time and for doing a site visit.

Good afternoon

This is Brett Hansen.

We have talked before.

In hopes that the zoning amendment passes to continue the rebuild of park models as we have been doing in Venture Out for quite some time, I have been talking with the condo board about what is going to be required from the city as far as building regulations.

Based on our conversations, I told them that you would be requiring all new builds to comply with applicable IRC code for building and NEC code for electrical. I also told them that the IRC code has some things in it that will be different that how we have been building in the past. One of the biggest differences being the additional footings that are going to be required.

We also talked about the requirement for a 1 hour firewall being 5/8 Type X drywall being installed anywhere that a wall is within 5 feet of an adjoining structure. This will mean that on rebuilds we will need the 5/8 drywall everywhere that the structures are within 5 feet. For most properties this will mean the long wall on the park model side as well as the long wall on the Arizona room addition side. In addition, when a park model is placed on a lot and an Arizona room is added, it is likely that the outside wall will also need the 5/8 drywall.

They are open to just requiring the 5/8 Type X drywall as required by IRC code because it has proven to meet the one hour requirement in their testing.

They have asked me to reach out to you for a letter indicating that if we build to IRC code, they will no longer require the AZ room side of the homes to be build with steel framing and fire rated plywood.

Could you email me a memo/letter indicating that going forward for either complete rebuilds or AZ room additions to an existing park model, that the city will expect us to follow the IRC code in our building practices?

If you could do that, it would really help us get this change made and still allow us to build homes that will meet the 1 hour requirement. In fact, because we will now be putting the 5/8 drywall on the exterior AZ room and park model sides, we would be building an even safer home for residents.

If you have a question, please call me at 801 866-8120.

Thank you very much for your help.

If the zoning ordinance is amended to allow conventional construction in RV/MH subdivisions, the City would permit building per the IRC for homes, additions, and patio enclosures (Arizona rooms). In the case of structures less than 5 feet from a property line IRC Table R302.1 would be applicable. Any wall less than 5 feet from a property line would be limited to 25% openings and walls less than 3 feet would have 0% openings. This may be challenging for Arizona rooms that are 5 feet or less from a property line due to the required openings.

Additionally, HOA or condominium requirements may be more restrictive than the City. It would be prudent to verify that any construction is compliant with both requirements.

Brett,

I'll chime in on the question of what happens if the proposed text amendments don't pass and let John address the building code.

Last December as part of a text amendment that mainly dealt with Accessory Dwelling Units, changes were made to the definition of Manufactured Home Accessory Structures to allow them to be used for living purposes. Attached is the adoption by reference document. You'll want to refer to Sections 16, 17, and 20.

If the proposed text amendments which include similar changes to Recreational Vehicle Accessory Structures and the allowance for conventional builds in subdivisions don't pass these are still in effect.

One additional clarification if you would. The City would permit building per the IRC for homes, additions, and patio enclosures (Arizona rooms) You are saying the City would permit building to IRC code for the construction. Shouldn't those items noted be required to be built to IRC? And if the amendment should happen to not pass, would you not still require additions and AZ rooms to be built to IRC guidelines?

I still understand that HOA requirements may be more restrictive than City requirements but I am assuming that IRC guidelines will be the minimum requirement in any case. Is that correct?

I am working with one of the HOA committees on building requirements. Just want it clear that IRC code is going to be the minimum requirement going forward, whether the amendment passes or not. (Of course we are really hoping that it will pass. If you have any suggestions as to what we can do as members of this committee to help get it passed, we would appreciate your thoughts.)

Good morning.

I don't know if you attended the committee meeting last Thursday morning or not. I heard from the two guys that went from Venture Out that the members of the committee had some questions.

If it would help anyone, I am more than willing to provide one or all of the members oa tour of Venture Out so they can see what it is like here. It may help answer some of their questions that they were bringing up in the meeting.

Thanks

Hi Rachel

Carriage Manor, Citrus Gardens, Greenfield Village and Venture Out are the only developments that I was able to verify that the homeowners are the lot owners.

Silver Ridge is not owned by Cal Am. It is owned by someone else that also owns a second development.

I thought there was a fifth one but couldn't find it.

I called the office of the other 3 and asked them what my options were if I didn't like the unit on my lot and wanted to replace it. All of them said the only option was to pull it out and bring in a new park model. I followed up by asking if building a new unit was an option. They all said that it wasn't allowed.

Hi Ivan,

The resident came into the office on Thursday of last week and he was advised to stop construction and submit for permits for his livable addition. At this point, the code does not allow for livable additions to manufactured homes but there is an amendment to the code going to City Council later in January that would permit this. Please reach out to LongRangePlanning@mesaaz.gov for any questions on the amendment.

Hello,

I hope you're doing well.

We are interested in submitting a proposal for a livable addition to a manufactured home, and Emily Johnson mentioned that an amendment was going to the City Council that would permit this. I was wondering if the amendment has already been passed. Additionally, do you have an estimate of when we would be able to submit our application for this addition?

Thank you so much for your assistance!

Hello Rachel,

I hope you're doing well. I also hope everything went smoothly with the Community and Cultural Development Committee regarding the recent amendment for livable additions to manufactured homes.

When do you think we should submit our application for a livable addition to manufactured homes to the City? Could submitting it now be beneficial for the progress of the amendment? Or should we wait for the amendment to proceed.

Thank you for your help!

Hi Ivan,

No, the amendment has not yet been to City Council for their consideration. Our next step is to take it to the Community and Cultural Development Committee on Thursday, February 6 at 8:00 a.m for their recommendation. After the text amendment has been presented to the committee we will work on placing it on a City Council agenda.

If you're interested in attending the meeting, once again it will be on Thursday, February 6 at 8:00 a.m and will be held in the Study Session Room, located at 20 E Main St. Citizens are allowed to speak on the item. Public comment will be taken at the beginning of the meeting before staff presentation. You may also submit items for the committee to review beforehand and those must be submitted by the end of day Monday the 3rd. Those can be emailed to me.

Please let me know if you have any other questions.

Best Regards,
Rachel

Mesa city planning division -

Please do not pass this zoning ordinance text amendment allowing conventional build in manufactured home subdivisions.

This will allow folks to build "mother-in-law" apartments on their property.

Experience shows that these are often rented out as apartments, usually by low-income, bad-influence people. We already have too many of these negative-influence "homeless" type people in our neighborhoods.

Mr. Nesbit,

Thank you for your input. In regard to the mother-in-law suites, I did want to let you know that state actually passed legislation last year (House Bill 2720) that mandated that municipalities allow accessory dwelling units (aka mother-in-law suites) on single-family properties. There are still certain development standards that the accessory dwelling unit must meet such as setbacks, so not every property may feasibly be able to construct one, but the City can not prohibit it.

Staff will keep your email as part of the public record which will be part of the agenda packet that goes to City Council. Please let us know if you have any questions or comments.

Best Regards,
Rachel

Hello

We currently live in a multi residence community. Fountain of the sun which has stick built, manufactured, condos, town houses and patio homes.

Will this effect this type of community?

Thank you

Ms. Hummel,

I do not believe the proposed text amendments would have an effect on the Fountain of the Sun. The zoning which was approved in 1986 (Z86-48) allowed for conventionally built units as you mentioned.

The amendments as presently written would limit single-family units to one story but I believe that the conventionally built single-family homes in the Fountain of the Sun are single-story.

Please let me know if you have any further questions.

Rachel
