More information about forming an IWDD

- An Irrigation Water Delivery District (IWDD) is a county district that's managed by neighbors.
- It helps with funds to cover the cost of irrigation system upkeep, essentially helping neighborhood lines' maintenance and repair costs.
- An IWDD is a way to ensure costs are shared equally by neighbors.
- Funds come from property taxes and 100% of funds would stay within our IWDD.
- After an IWDD it is formed, trustees are elected by the neighborhood and then we establish the bylaws based on the needs of our private irrigation system.
- The IWDD members would meet least annually to discuss maintenance issues and budget needs for the upcoming year.

Irrigation Reminders

Hello to everyone who receives irrigation water!

- If you are one of the homes who receives irrigation, please:
 - communicate with your neighbors
 - have your valve open during your scheduled time
 - have your valve fully closed all other times

Our neighborhood, and the irrigation lines beneath, are around 50 years old, so any extra pressure in the system due to a valve not being open at the scheduled time can cause significant damage anywhere along the line.

This damage can affect both the lines as well as private property (including those who do not receive irrigation but have the line pass under their property).

- We will be holding a meeting to discuss forming an Irrigation Water Delivery District (IWDD) next Saturday morning.
 - Meeting will be held at 1753 N Dresden at 8a
