Recommendation

Council is requested to approve the award as recommended.

Background / Discussion

In 2009, Council approved the purchase of IAPro, a database software from CI Technologies, Inc. This software is used by the Department Professional Standards Division to investigate, document, track and analyze data obtained through investigations and community contacts. The software provides an efficient means to track sworn and civilian staff behavior and incidents.

The capabilities of IAPro, include EIPro, an advanced early intervention tool that can provide supervisory and command staff critical information regarding employee behavior in real-time. The benefits of EIPro include:

- View a modal snapshot of an employee's linked information to get a closer look at incidents of concern.
- Obtain a detailed view of incidents employees are involved in including summaries and information on involved officers and citizens.
- Identify employees who may require closer observations by highlighting the incidents they have been involved in.
- View an officer's demographics contacted, use of force data, and allegations.
- View the change in an officer's assignment history.

CI Technologies is the sole manufacturer and distributor of EIPro, as well as the sole provider of related training, support, data migration, and data integration services.
